

The Making of Religion?

Re-Describing Religious Change in Pre-modern Europe

Mahindra Humanities Center at Harvard
Barker Center | Room 133

Open to the public; seating is limited
Please register via e-mail | Sita Steckel, steckel@fas.harvard.edu

Friday April 29th, 2011

- 3.30 pm Introduction
- 4.00 pm Keynote lecture: Alexandra Walsham (Cambridge, UK): Migrations of the Holy. Religious Change in Medieval and Early Modern Europe
- 6.00 pm Reception
- 7.30 pm Dinner

Saturday April 30th, 2011

- 9.30–11.00 am Christine Caldwell Ames (University of South Carolina): Inquisitors and Historians: Scholarly Constructions of ‚Religion‘ in the Middle Ages
- Antje Flüchter (Heidelberg): Indian Mysteries. Terms, Concepts and Perceptions of Religions in India in Early Modern European Texts
- 11.30 am–1.00 pm Nicholas Watson (Harvard University): Renaissances and Their Dark Ages: The Case of the ‚Long‘ Twelfth Century
- Andreas Pietsch (Münster): Radical Reformation Revisited: Re-Describing the Family of Love

2.00–3.30 pm

Frank Rexroth (Göttingen): Religion and the two Master Narratives of Scholasticism

Julie Orlemanski (Harvard University): Medicine, Religion, and Causality in Late-Medieval England

4.00–5.30 pm

Matthew Gabriele (Virginia Tech): Reorienting the Medieval West around the Millennium: Thinking from Past to Future

Sita Steckel (Harvard University/Münster): Talking circles (cycles?) around Na Prous Boneta

5.30–6.30 pm

Comment Panel
Kathleen Davis (University of Rhode Island/Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton); Karl Ubl (Tuebingen, Germany/Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton), Björn K. Weiler (Aberystwyth, UK/FRIAS Freiburg, Germany)